Market Review

All signs continue to point to a robust economic recovery. The House passed President Biden's $1.9 trillion pandemic relief package. The bill, which is facing revision before it is passed to the Senate, provides a $350 billion lifeline to the states and $1,400 checks to many Americans. It is a massive spending bill that will likely increase demand just as the number of new COVID cases are taking a nosedive due to increased vaccinations and eventual herd immunity.

It is hard to overstate just how large this spending package is. According to Former Treasury Secretary Larry Summers' Washington Post editorial, Biden's stimulus package is three times larger than the projected economic shortfall caused by the pandemic. And how might such a huge fiscal stimulus package effect the chances for further expenditures on public works like infrastructure? The era of massive government spending may be just beginning.

Meanwhile, Federal Reserve Chairman Powell reiterated that the Fed funds rate will remain low and that the Fed will keep buying bonds to support the US economy. He continues to push back against fears of higher inflation, even as commodity prices continue to rise.

As this is all occurring, the yield curve is steeping (i.e., long-term interest rates are increasing more quickly than are short-term rates). This has spooked the equity markets, as evidenced by a 7% drop in the Nasdaq 100 in the last two weeks of February. But it should be noted that higher rates and higher stock prices have occurred in lockstep in several periods, especially if the reason for increasing rates is more robust economic growth.

As always, the strategy has no bullish or bearish tilt. We are only interested in positive expected returns over nearly every 12-month rolling period independent of equity markets movement up or down. We believe the current wide range of views of market participants is important. We expect our strategy to have more opportunities as a variety of market participants excite markets in either direction. These behavioral dynamics are mathematically detectable and actionable for the kinds of return streams we value – relatively consistent with modest drawdowns.

Sincerely yours,

Ben Warwick

Paul Strehle

Simultaneous with the commencement of the Fund's investment operations on October 13, 2017, the Goldman Navigator Fund, L.P., a limited partnership managed by Mr. Steven Goldman, the Fund's portfolio manager (the "Predecessor Partnership"), converted into the Institutional Class shares of the Fund by contributing all its assets to the Fund in exchange for Institutional Class shares of the Fund.

Performance data quoted prior to October 13, 2017, represents the past performance of the Goldman Navigator Fund, L.P., a limited partnership managed by Mr. Steven Goldman, the Fund's portfolio manager (the "Predecessor Partnership"). From its inception in 2002 through 2012, the Predecessor Partnership was managed as a proprietary account of the portfolio manager and was converted to a limited partnership in 2012. From its inception on February 1, 2002, through October 13, 2017, the Predecessor Partnership maintained investment policies, objectives, guidelines, and restrictions that were, in all material respects, equivalent to those of the Fund, and at the time of the conversion, the Predecessor Partnership was managed by the same portfolio manager as the Fund.

Such portfolio manager managed the Predecessor Partnership since its inception in a manner that, in all material respects, complied with the investment guidelines and restrictions of the Fund. The Fund's performance for periods before October 13, 2017, is that of the Predecessor Partnership and includes the expenses of the Predecessor Partnership. The performance includes gains or losses plus income and the reinvestment of all dividends and interest. All returns reflect the deduction of all actual fees and expenses, paid by the Predecessor Partnership, without provision for state or local taxes. If the Predecessor Partnership's performance was adjusted to reflect the projected first-year expenses of the Fund, the performance for all periods would have been lower than that stated. The Predecessor Partnership was not registered under the 1940 Act and was not subject to certain investment limitations, diversification requirements, and other restrictions imposed by the 1940 Act and the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), which, if applicable, may have adversely affected its performance. On a going forward basis after October 13, 2017, the Fund's performance will be calculated using the standard formula set forth in rules promulgated by the SEC, which differs in certain respects from the methods used to compute total returns for the Predecessor Partnership. IMPORTANT RISK INFORMATION:

Mutual fund investing involves risk; principal loss is possible. Leveraging may exaggerate the effect on net asset value of any increase or decrease in the market value of a Fund's portfolio. Investing in derivatives may subject the Fund to losses if the derivatives do not perform as expected. Short sales involve selling a security that a Fund borrows and does not own. Short sales carry significant risk, including the risk of loss if the value of a security sold short increases prior to the scheduled delivery date since a Fund must pay more for the security than it has received from the purchaser in the short sale. Futures contracts are subject to the same risks as the underlying investments that they represent, but also may involve risks different from, and possibly greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in the underlying investments. The Funds may invest in foreign securities which involve greater volatility and political, economic and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. This risk increases with emerging markets. Small and mid-size companies involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility. Investments in futures may result in a substantial loss in a short period. The loss may be more than the original investment. One cannot invest directly in an index.
