

Vice Fund (VICEX) Commentary
May 2022

For the month of May, the Fund was +2.41%.

Market Review

In May, global equities rebounded modestly. The Federal Reserve raised interest rates 50 basis points and indicated further rate hikes this year. The dollar weakened as non-U.S. asset classes generally outperform their U.S. counterparts. Value stocks generally outperformed growth stocks. Oil gains continued to fuel inflationary pressures.

The Fund outperformed broad equity index benchmarks mainly due to value stocks outperformance of growth stocks. Moreover, the Fund's largest position coming into the year, Swedish Match, agreed to a potential buyout offer from Philip Morris. The Fund benefited in this case from its ongoing investments in the non-combustible tobacco market.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Strehle

IMPORTANT RISK INFORMATION:

Mutual fund investing involves risk; principal loss is possible. The Fund will concentrate its net assets in industries that have significant barriers to entry including the alcoholic beverages, tobacco, gaming and defense/aerospace industries, the Fund may be subject to the risks affecting those industries, including the risk that the securities of companies within those industries will underperform due to adverse economic conditions, regulatory or legislative changes or increased competition affecting those industries, more than would a fund that invests in a wide variety of industries. The Fund invests in foreign securities which involve greater volatility and political, economic and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. The Fund invests in smaller companies, which involve additional risks, such as limited liquidity and greater volatility. Derivatives may involve certain costs and risks such as liquidity, interest rate, market, credit, management and the risk that a position could not be closed when most advantageous. Investing in derivatives could result in losing more than the amount invested. If a security sold short increases in price, the Fund may have to cover its short position at a higher price than the short sale price, resulting in a loss.
